

Pathways to Work is a partnership between employers, funders and training providers to equip hardworking individuals with the training needed to get and keep better paying jobs in high growth industries.

THE MIDDLE SKILL OPPORTUNITY

Demand for middle skill jobs, which require education beyond high school but not a four-year degree, is growing. Dallas area employers are unable to find enough sufficiently trained workers to fill open jobs.

PATHWAYS TO WORK OBJECTIVES

INVEST
in middle skill training and certification pathways

COORDINATE
training providers, employers and funders

BUILD
capacity of training providers

ANALYZE
data to increase impact

INVESTMENTS IN CAREER PATHWAYS

Nurse Aid Certification Program

Students in the community-based nurse aid certification program provided by El Centro Community College are taught skills essential to the care of hospitalized patients and residents in long-term care.

IT-Ready Initiative

The Per Scholas IT-Ready Initiative provides technology job training, certification, placement and career development services in a rapid 8-week program.

Financial support for Pathways to Work provided by:

